A trivial Cheers toast

- 1) What job did Carla's goalie husband Eddie LeBec (Jay Thomas) land after being cut by the Boston Bruins?
- 2) Besides drinking beer, name two other full-time jobs held by Norm.
- 3) What former Get Smart vixen (left) played Sam's once-a-year Valentine's Day tryst partner?
- 4) How many kids does Carla have?
- 5) Who burned down the bar this season and how?
- 6) Name Sam's three all-time favorite actors.
- 7) Who played Rebecca's wealthy and snotty Brit suitor Robin Colcord?
- 8) What name did Frasier and Lilith bestow upon their son?
- 9) What was Coach's real first name?
- 10) Who played recurring con man Harry the Hat?

ANSWERS

- 1) Playing a penguin in the Capeades
- 2) Acoustician/house painter
- 3) Barbara Feldon
- 4) Eight
- 5) Rebecca, with a lit cigarette in a wastebasket
- 6) The Three Stooges
- 7) Roger Rees
- 8) Frederic
- 9) Ernie
- 10) Harry Anderson (Night Court)

Grammer test

Kelsey Grammer (left), who rides off into the Cheers sunset May 20 and into his own NBC series—Dr. Frasier Crane—next fall, had to be convinced to hang on to his pompous psychiatrist character. “But I was persuaded by the powers-that-be that the odds of a sitcom home run were a lot higher if Frasier was part of the equation,” he says. Left out of that equation will be Bebe Neuwirth, who played Frasier’s prickly wife and fellow psychiatrist, Lilith. Neuwirth left Cheers earlier this season. “Just say Bebe isn’t going on with the show,” says Grammer, who moves from Boston to Seattle in his new series. Why Seattle? “Because it rains all the time, so there would be a lot of people who need help. That’s Frasier’s logic.”

Pool's vehicle is just one of the many wacky "art" cars featured in Harrod Blank's "Wild Wheels" video and book (Firefly). Blank himself drives an old Beetle adorned with just about anything you can imagine picking up at a garage sale, and he'll be talking about the world of art cars May 17 on Canada AM and May 19 on The Dini Petty Show.

• ON YOUR MARKS: Later this week, the U.S. nets announce their fall schedules. At press time, the following had already been shelved: ABC's The Wonder Years and Life Goes On; CBS's Designing Women and Knots Landing; NBC's Quantum Leap, Cheers and A Different World. Announced renewals: ABC's Full House, Home Improvement, Coach and Roseanne; CBS's In the Heat of the Night, NBC's L.A. Law, Seinfeld, Mad About You, Wings and Nurses.

• CHANNEL SURF'S UP: NBC has announced a full slate of summer shows (debut dates in brackets): South Beach (June 6) stars Yancy Butler (Mann and Machine) as a Miami con artist-turned-undercover agent; Route 66 (June 8) revives the old '60s series, with James Wilder (Equal Justice) and newcomer Dan Cortese behind the dash of the classic white 'vette, and Smoldering Lust (May 29) stars Kate Capshaw ("Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom"), Bradley Whitford ("Scent of a Woman") and John Calvin in a '40s film noir sendup. And NBC Prime Story (June 23) is yet another news mag, featuring Faith Daniels.

Dressing Up t

In the real world, a slightly askew tie or smudge of eye makeup wouldn't count against one. But under the magnifying glass eye of television, such infinitesimal faults can appear glaring.

TV GUIDE wanted to find out how our Canadian network newscasters stack up, style wise, both against each other and their counterparts at U.S. networks. Accordingly, we asked Leslie C.

Smith, a fashion columnist for the Toronto Globe and Mail, to take a look one recent week at the anchors' appearance. The results of her purely subjective survey are itemized below, with points awarded for overall presentation, attention to detail and originality. Bonus points go out to exceptionally telegenic hairstyles.

CTV CANADA AM

Valerie Pringle

She's got legs and she knows how to use 'em: The miniskirt may be dead in some circles, but it's alive and well and on Valerie Pringle every day of the week. Hey, if you've got great gams and don't mind the updraft, I say go for it. Pringle gains points for her overall fashionability and for having lustrous auburn (as opposed to blond) hair; however, she loses ground for going with the cliché anchorwoman haircut, as well as wearing the same hoop-and-bobble earrings for several days running.

Style Rating 7

Keith Morrison

If this were Saturday Night Live's Wayne's World, Keith Morrison would be summed up in one simple phrase: "Magically hunk-alicious, with great hair." God-given good looks aside, Morrison exhibits a certain amount of conservative flair in his clothing style. Too bad his suits and ties aren't quite up to the effort—they seem several seasons out-of-date. Some day when he gets around to renewing his wardrobe, Morrison might also want to search for shirts whose collars and cuffs are long enough to fit his lanky frame.

Thalia Assuras

While other female anchors are scrambling to get out from under the shadow of the late Barbara Frum's shoulder pads, Assuras is sticking to what worked so well in the equally late '80s: heavily-wadded jackets worn over round-necked tops, in daring color combinations of red and black and black and red. Peter Mansbridge

Here's a news flash for you, Peter—even Hugo Boss suits have shrunk to more natural proportions. Unless you're hiding a Raymond Burr-size body behind that lovely black lacquer desk, lose the lumpy shoulder padding. Full marks for not trying to disguise a retreating hairline (all the more room to raise those expressive eyebrows, anyway), but points off for dull color combinations and spread shirt collars, which only serve to emphasize a round face.

Pamela Wallin

Cool, elegant and sophisticated: That's the word on Wallin. Despite her stereotypical blond hair and regulation anchorwoman's bob, and overlooking the rare neckline blunder (one otherwise well-tailored suit featured a cut-out closure that looked like a large, flesh-colored star had plopped onto her upper chest), Wallin exhibits true flair. Her on-air ensembles are perfectly attuned to her personality—so much so that one simply cannot imagine her dressing any other way, even when hanging around at home.

Only his hairdresser knows for sure, but it's reasonable to assume that this venerable newscaster has been hitting the hair-dye bottle for some time. Not a style crime in itself—it's just interesting to speculate whether Robertson is having more fun, now that he's a blond. In terms of on-camera clothing, Robertson dresses professionally and in keeping with being "of a certain age." Extra points for recognizing that a pocket puff spiffs up an ordinary suit front.

Norma Kent

Regular anchor Joanne Stefanyk was on vacation the week I tuned in, leaving Norma Kent in the hot seat. First, the good news: Kent favors natural-looking makeup and wears her brown hair in a flattering, pixie-cut bob. This is a welcome departure from the standard, blond broadcast hairdo (sheared above the shoulder, parted on the side and swept over fringed bangs, heavy on the hair-spray). The bad news is that Kent's ensembles lack both color and character: Her jack-

Peter Jennings

Jennings has coasted far too long on a reputation for being dapper. In reality, his wardrobe is as stale as last week's headlines. His ties are tired, his shirts lifeless and his suits just plain dull. Dan the Man has improved beyond all recognition over the past few years. He's dumped the snoozy sweater vests, colored his hair in a much more natural manner and has obviously found the ideal menswear retailer. His dress shirts alone deserve an Emmy. Rather's ties are right in style too, his suits fit his shoulders beautifully, and his wardrobe coordination is chock-full of subtle dynamics. In short, he could be a poster boy for the way a network anchor should look.

Suds saga

In a long-awaited return to the musical stage, Carol Burnett will team with The Bold and the Beautiful's John McCook (Eric; right) in "From the Top."

Premiering this week in California, the show consists of three mini-musical comedies: One (set to songs with Ira Gershwin lyrics) features Burnett as Wallis Simpson and McCook as her jilted hubby; another (with tunes by Irving Berlin) boasts Burnett as a World War I nurse who duets with the wounded-in-action McCook; the third (with a Cole Porter score) is a send-up of the 1938 film "Algiers," with Burnett in the Hedy Lamarr role and McCook filling in for Charles Boyer.

Come fall, though, Burnett could be starring in a TV farce: In July, the comedienne will tape a CBS pilot tentatively titled "Reel Life" about the making of a daytime sudser. "I play the resident diva who's ticked off because she's not in prime time," says Burnett. "The woman who writes and produces the soap is too cheap to pay for editing so we have to do it live, and, of course, everything can go wrong." Amid the screw-ups, Burnett hopes to edit in shots of Susan Lucci, Elizabeth Taylor and other pals watching the soap and reacting in horror. But don't expect Burnett to stick around if she doesn't want to: She's made an unprecedented deal with CBS—unlike the stars of other network pilots who must sign a contract saying they'll stick with a show if it becomes a series, Burnett can trash "Reel Life" if she's not happy with it—even if CBS thinks it has a winner.

All aboard!

This week, after Another World's Frankie (Alice Barrett) and Cass (Stephen Schnetzer) say "I do" and climb aboard the Orient Express, executive producer Michael Laibson will follow up their wedding night with a special black-and-white dream episode (May 20) inspired by three classic train flicks—"Murder on the Orient Express," "Brief Encounter" and "The Lady Vanishes." Make that three ladies: Returning to AW for the day are a trio of Cass's former flames—Kathleen, Nicole and Cecile, played by past fan favorites Julie Osburn, Anne Howard and Nancy Frangione.—Michael Logan

MOVIES

The emotional aftershock of losing a child is the sombre focus of the CBS TV-movie There Was a Little Boy (Sunday).

Cybill Shepherd and John Heard (above right) play parents who are still grieving over the inexplicable kidnapping of their son 15 years earlier.

The fact-based CBS TV-movie When Love Kills: The Seduction of John

Steven Spielberg's 1985 heart-tugger The Color Purple gets another run Thursday (CBS). Whoopi Goldberg is outstanding as a young black woman struggling in the

TONY ESPARZA/CBS ANDREW SEMEL/FOX BOB GREENE/CBS

Deep South, circa 1900.

And the new NBC TV-movie Perry Mason: The Case of the Tell-Tale Talk Show Host (Friday), has a truly unusual guest cast. Mason (Raymond Burr) looks into the murder of a radio station owner (Regis Philbin), whose on-air staff are the prime suspects: Is it the shrink (Mariette Hartley)? The jock (Montel Williams)? Or the right-winger (G. Gordon Liddy)?

SPECIALS

It's viewers' choice this week as the May Sweeps pump up the volume, starting Saturday with the CBS special Ancient Secrets of the Bible II, in which Dennis Weaver oversees reenactments of Bible stories and talks to biblical scholars.

Get out your bellbottoms Wednesday for Bradymania: A Very Brady Special (ABC), which features all the series regulars—save Dad Robert Reed, who died last year—waxing nostalgic over clips of the saccharine 1969-74 sitcom.

On the same night, those rather old-looking teens of Beverly Hills, 90210 (Fox, CanWest/Global) finally graduate (above centre). The two-hour episode has the teens looking back and, like, pondering their future.

Plan on being home Thursday for NBC's killer lineup (also on CanWest/Global): Starting at 8 P.M. (eastern), there's an hourlong Seinfeld, in which Jerry and George finally get their NBC sitcom. After that, there's a half-hour special Last Call! A Cheers Celebration, hosted by Bob Costas. Then it's a 90-minute final kiss-off to Cheers—so set your VCRs accordingly.

VIDEO

Al Pacino (above) won a Best Actor Oscar for "Scent of a Woman," but could have also easily won for his supporting role in Glengarry Glen Ross (MCA). Pacino plays one of four salesmen (along with Ed Harris, Alan Arkin and Jack Lemmon) desperately trying to hawk real estate—with their jobs hanging on the outcome.

Also out: Billionaire Boy's Club (MCA) is a terrific 1987 TV-movie with Judd Nelson as a killer yuppie in Beverly Hills. And Paramount releases a slew of original Star Trek episodes ($14.95 each), with each tape including a collectors' card. Go forth and spend.—Andrew Ryan

ANDY SCHWARTZ/NEW LINE CINEMA NBC

That Other Bambi

One true-life story with real staying power goes the TV-movie route this week in Woman on the Run: The Lawrencia Bembeneck Story (Sunday and Monday on NBC, CanWest/Global). The project also marks the return of Tatum O'Neal (below right, with Bembeneck), who conferred with her subject before assuming the role. "Lawrencia had no particular demands or suggestions about my playing her," says O'Neal. "Just as long as we got all the facts straight."

Bembeneck's saga began in 1981 in Milwaukee, when she was arrested for the murder of her cop husband's ex-wife. After serving about nine years of a life sentence, she escaped and fled to Canada in 1990; three months later, she was arrested while working as a waitress in Thunder Bay, Ont., after America's Most Wanted did a segment on her escape.

Bembeneck maintained she was innocent throughout the ordeal, but last December pleaded "no contest" to a reduced charge of second-degree murder. O'Neal has had her own personal battles lately: She's now a single mom (two boys, 5 and 6, and a 2-year-old daughter) after separating from her husband, tennis brat John McEnroe. Which is why, claims O'Neal, it's cathartic to play a woman with true grit. "She really is an incredibly heroic character," says O'Neal. "I'm not exactly sure how she was able to endure all this, but you know, some people are stronger than others. I'm a survivor myself."—A.R.

SPORTS

Ask major league managers, coaches or players to name the best utility players in The Show, and the responses are as varied as the number of positions that Oakland Athletics' Jerry Browne might play in a week. But these nomads of the diamond all have one thing in common: They'll do whatever it takes to help their team.

"I think the biggest part of it is taking pride in wanting to do it," says Blue Jays first-base coach Bob Bailor (Toronto visits New York Saturday, and Boston Monday, TSN). Bailor, who played with Toronto, Los Angeles and the New York Mets, should know. During his nine years in the majors, he played the outfield, shortstop, third, second, and even pitched in three games for the Jays.

Cleveland manager Mike Hargrove says, "Good utility people are blessed and cursed in the same breath. They're blessed to have a lot of talent, but they're cursed in that third base may be their best position, and they've got a chance to win the job there, but their value to the ball club is such that they're needed elsewhere. Consequently they don't get the chance to be a starting player and play every day."

Having versatile players on the roster also makes the manager's job a lot easier, says Bailor. "You might have a guy who can play third base and first base, but he can't play short or second, so now they have to get an extra third baseman and an extra middle infielder. If you have one guy who can play all four of them, that eliminates the need for an extra fielder, so you can go with another pitcher, catcher or, say, an extra left-handed hitter off the bench."

Opinions vary on whether good utility players are becoming as rare as spitballs and players nicknamed Babe. "I think they're kind of a dying breed, because of the way the contract and money structure is going in baseball," says Blue Jays broadcaster Tommy Hutton, a first baseman and outfielder over 12 seasons with L.A., Philadelphia, Toronto and Montreal. "These guys are pricing themselves out of the game. More teams are going with young, inexperienced players as opposed to older guys, with the exception of teams that have some money."

Hargrove disagrees. "I don't think they're a dying breed because a good utility player is not getting top dollar. There's a danger in them being priced out, but that hasn't happened yet."

Being a utility player won't put you in Barry Bonds' or Joe Carter's tax bracket, but it could prolong your stay in the big leagues, says Bailor. "In my case, it tacked four more years on my major-league career. The reason I had to do it was I came up with the Orioles as an infielder and they had Brooks Robinson at third, Mark Belanger at short and Bobby Grich at second. Things didn't look too good for me. I just started doing it on my own. I went to third, I went to second, went to the outfield and shagged balls, just taught myself to do different things."

For others, like Montreal Expos rookie Mike Lansing (Montreal faces New York Saturday in CBS regional coverage, and Atlanta Monday and Tuesday on TBS), the ability to play more than one position is a ticket to the majors. Lansing, a shortstop in Double-A ball last season, made the Expos as a reserve infielder and got a chance to play regularly when second baseman Delino DeShields contracted chicken pox the first week of the season. Lansing played so well—he hit over .400—that upon DeShields' return, Lansing became the everyday third baseman. "I look at it as an opportunity to play," Lansing says of his projected utility role. "I'll play wherever Felipe [Alou, the Expos manager] wants me to."—Mike Norris

VCR ALERT! Please add sufficient time when taping late-night movies. Commercial time is usually undetermined at press time.

Attention A&E Subscribers Copyright agreements may prevent scheduled A&E movies from being broadcast by Canadian cable companies. When TV GUIDE is aware of a programming alternative being offered by a cable company, that information will appear in the listings, along with source programming. For further information, contact your cable company.

TV GUIDE rates movies excellent (★★★★), good (★★★), fair (★★) or poor (★). We do not evaluate movies (signified by an absence of symbols) if a rating might be premature or pointless, or if too few facts are known.

NEXT WEEK

COVER: The best in daytime television once again takes front and centre stage at the Daytime Emmy Awards, but backstage, it's another story.

TRUE-LIFE TV: Truth really can be stranger than fiction, as yet another crop of reality-based TV-movies from NBC proves.

GOLDEN GIRL: Beverly Hills, 90210's Tori Spelling has it made as the daughter of the boss (90210 creator Aaron Spelling)—or does she?

CELEBRITY CHEF: Thom Christopher, formerly of One Life to Live, preps Vegetarian Stir Fry.

IN REVIEW: Editor Richard Charteris reviews the results of the Save Our Shows poll.

F.A. CUP FINAL

Arsenal guns for a sixth F.A. Cup title in a battle with three-time winners Sheffield Wednesday at London's Wembley Stadium.

The game is a rematch of last month's League Cup final, won 2-1 by Arsenal. Unfortunately, that victory was as costly as it was sweet for the Gunners:

At the final whistle, winning-goal scorer Steve Morrow broke his arm after being tossed in the air by his teammates. Even if he returns for this match, Arsenal will be in tough against a very hungry Sheffield Wednesday side. Powered by veteran Chris Waddle and striker David Hirst, Wednesday is determined to end an F.A. Cup drought that has kept them from the victory podium for 58 years.

Graham Leggat and Vic Rauter report. (Live)

ON BASE WITH THE

BLUE JAYS

The Blue Jays are on the road this week, making their first visit of the season to a pair of baseball shrines—Yankee Stadium and Fenway Park—where they've enjoyed mixed results in recent years. Here's a refresher on how the Jays performed against the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox in '92:

— The Jays were 11-2 against the Yankees last season, including 5-1 at the "House

That Ruth Built" and haven't lost a season series in the Bronx since 1984 (going 35-17 in that span) — Jays hitters found pinstripes pitching to their liking, batting a collective .326 and outscoring the Yanks 90-38 in 13 games.

— Joe Carter (left) feasted on the Yanks, hitting .455 (20-for-44) with three home runs and 18 runs batted in

— Roberto Alomar batted .366 (15-for-41) in the series with eight RBIs

— Paul Molitor hit .353 (18-for-51) against the Yanks with 10 RBIs

— John Olerud rang up a .342 average (13-for-38) against Yankees pitching

— The Jays staff ERA of 2.79 against New York was its lowest against any AL opponent

— The Jays found Fenway

Park not nearly as friendly as Yankee Stadium. They lost three of seven games in Beantown and have not won a series at Fenway since 1989

— The clubs split six games at SkyDome, the first time since 1988 the Blue Jays didn't lose a season home series to the Bosox

— The Red Sox were one of only two teams to have a winning record against the Jays in '92 (Milwaukee, 8-5, was the other)

— Carter had three HRs and a team-high eight RBIs against the Red Sox. Carter has 27 career homers against Boston

— Despite losing seven of 13 games, Jays pitchers had a 2.14 ERA

— Jack Morris turned in the best effort among the starters, throwing a four-hit shutout in his only start against the Bosox

Debut: Oliver Stone is the executive producer of this four-part blend of film noir, cyberpunk science fiction and soap opera set in the year 2007.

As it opens, Harry Wyckoff (James Belushi) accepts a job at a TV station that is about to revolutionize the industry by utilizing a technology known as "virtual reality," which converts TV transmissions into 3-D holographic programs.

Harry quickly becomes tangled in the shady political dealings of the station's charismatic owner, Sen. Anton Kreutzer (Robert Loggia). The senator's schemes fling Harry, his family and friends into a sequence of events in which people aren't who they appear to be and nothing is as it seems. (2:00)

WHEN LOVE KILLS: THE SEDUCTION OF JOHN HEARN, PART 1

Gary Cole and Marg Helgenberger star in this two-part 1993 TV-movie, a fact-based drama about a Vietnam veteran whose quest for a steady income traps him in a murder-for-hire scheme.

Single father John Hearn (Cole) starts a bodyguard business and advertises in a magazine targeted at mercenaries. Since most of the responses he receives involve illegal activities, he turns them down. But then he receives a call from a sultry-voiced woman named Debbie Banister (Helgenberger).

Hearn refuses Banister's initial request to kill her sister's husband, but she insinuates herself into his life and he falls in love with her. Then, testimony by children supposedly beaten by Banister's intended target moves him to murder. Soon Banister takes control of Hearn's business and tantalizes him with a utopian vision of their future together. And she convinces him to kill again and again. (2:00)

DENTURE PROBLEMS?

Here's why people now line their dentures with EZO Denture Cushions :

Frank Smyth
East York, Ontario:

"Basically, a poor fit.... probably the most miserable thing you could have. The EZO took up the difference....and made them adhere....and because of that you're able to keep the dentures tight! EZO definitely makes up the difference."

Sylvia White
Toronto, Ontario:

"Well, the bottom plate was loose....you know, the dentures rubbing against my gums and causing problems. I fit EZO on my bottom denture. It's pretty easy. They last for a long time. EZO has made eating very pleasurable for me."

Jacques Fournier
Laval, Quebec:

"I had trouble with my dentures. All I have to do with EZO is put it on my denture and everything's okay. For me, EZO is the best product that's in the market for the problems that I had with my dentures."

EZO makes denture-wearing easy! EZO Denture Cushions — the temporary aid that's not a messy cream, not a bad tasting powder. You feel so comfortable while EZO is cushioning your gums. EZO makes it easy because it goes on in minutes yet helps hold your dentures tight all day. So you feel more secure. EZO Denture Cushions — available at drugstores and supermarkets .

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Eleven years and 111 Emmy nominations later, the place where everybody knows your name is finally sounding its last call.

There will no doubt be Cheers parties everywhere, but the largest by far will be the blow-out at Toronto's SkyDome—sponsored by TV GUIDE, Global TV and Toronto's 99.9 The Mix radio in support of the Daily Bread Food Bank—where fans will gather to bid farewell to their favorite barflies while attempting to set a record for the largest indoor audience ever to watch a television show. But there's more on tap than simply the final episode: NBC has scheduled four hours of Cheers-related programming.

First up is the hourlong season finale of Seinfeld, in which Jerry and George finally get the go-ahead from NBC to produce their sitcom about nothing. The assignment isn't easy though: They've been asked to replace, you guessed it, Cheers.

Then, beginning in Cheers' regular timeslot, Bob Costas hosts a half-hour retrospective called "Last Call! A Cheers Celebration," which includes a behind-the-scenes look at the taping of the last episode, clips from the past 11 seasons, interviews with the cast and producers, and reminiscences from fans. And later that night, Jay Leno, who celebrates his first anniversary this month as the host of Tonight, takes the show to Boston's Bull & Finch bar, the real-life inspiration for Cheers. He'll interview members of the cast and do his monologue on the street, where bleachers will be set up for the audience.

Of course, the main event will be the sitcom's 90-minute swan song, which immediately follows "Last Call!" and features the return of Shelley Long as long-winded barmaid Diane, who since her departure has written an award-winning movie based on Carla's life. The gang in the bar watches in disbelief as she receives her award on TV and gives the longest acceptance speech in awards history.

Sam (Ted Danson) later phones Diane and, in a game of one-upmanship, the two lie about how wonderful their lives are. Diane tells him she's married and has three children. Not to be outdone, Sam tells her he's married with four children, only to have Diane show up at the bar the next day wanting to have lunch with his "wife." Sam panics and asks Rebecca (Kirstie Alley), who has just turned down a marriage proposal from Don the plumber (Tom Berenger), to pose as his wife. She agrees, but thanks to Don's amorous attentions Sam and Rebecca's plan to deceive Diane goes comically awry. Mike Ditka and supermodel Kim Alexis have cameos. Norm: George Wendt. Carla: Rhea Perlman. Cliff: John Ratzenberger. Frasier: Kelsey Grammer. Woody: Woody Harrelson. Kelly: Jackie Swanson. Paul: Paul Willson.

RED, ITCHY SKIN?

Get relief with GOLD BOND Medicated Powder

Phyllis Long, Comox, British Columbia

"It was just rough and red, rashy skin. I would say Gold Bond has relieved the symptoms. It just cools it off - and it just takes away the pain immediately."

GOLD BOND MEANS RELIEF! If you have itchy skin problems, you need to discover what so many Canadians have found for fast relief: Gold Bond Medicated Body Powder.

3 POWDERS IN ONE! Gold Bond's triple action is like three powders in one. It has the absorbing action of powder, the medicating action of a proven itch fighter and the drying action of zinc oxide.

GOLD BOND CAN HELP YOU!

Try Gold Bond Medicated Body Powder for yourself. It could work wonders for your dry, itchy skin! Look for triple action Gold Bond Medicated Body Powder at drug stores and supermarkets everywhere. Use only as directed.

verse title in the 42nd annual pageant. Dick Clark and Miss Universe 1987 Cecilia Bolocco host the festivities in Mexico City. First, the field is trimmed to 10, who are presented in swimsuit and evening-gown competitions before being interviewed by the hosts. Then, six semifinalists answer judges' questions. The three finalists respond to the same question to determine the winner, who'll be crowned by the reigning queen, Michelle McLean of Namibia. The U.S. is represented by Michigan's Kenya Moore. Most Peoples Cholesterol Levels are Harmfully Affected by Eating Eggs.

Bunk!

Surprised?

Most people are.

In fact, you probably don't have to give up eating eggs at all.

For most people, the amount of cholesterol in food has little or no effect on blood cholesterol.

In terms of diet, recent research suggests that a reduced saturated fat intake is the most effective means of decreasing blood cholesterol.

And one large egg contains just 1.5 grams of saturated fat.

So don't deprive yourself anymore.

Whether you enjoy your eggs poached, scrambled or boiled, it's hard to beat the powerfully good taste of eggs.

WILD PALMS

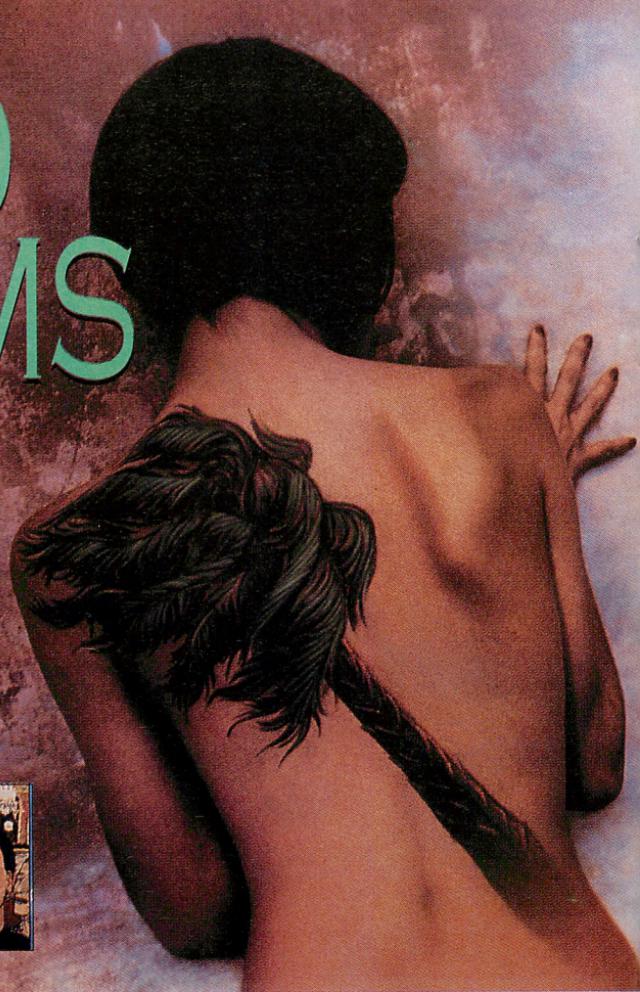

Director
Oliver Stone delivers his future vision in a mind-bending
miniseries

Harry Wyckoff (James Belushi) is an excellent patents attorney in Los Angeles in the year 2007. That much Harry knows for sure. That's about all he knows for sure. And that's the trouble with Harry.

Harry is not only a stranger in a strange land but dense. His vision for a great future is a house at the beach. Meanwhile, he's being manipulated by political forces that'll happily give him that oceanfront property in a modest exchange for his mind, body, soul, wife and male child. "There's both a comic book kind of feel to this project," says Belushi, "and a feeling of chaos. It's about Harry becoming a man, even a hero. And heroes aren't born, they're cornered."

by GLENN ESTERLY

Oliver Stone is behind this. The Oscar-winning director used his considerable clout to sell ABC on Wild Palms (ABC, May 16, 17, 18 and 19; CTV, May 16, 17, 18). Then he plotted, schemed and conspired with known talent to capture viewers' attention in a project that defies labels. ABC lauds it as "television noir" and nothing less than a "television event." At the very least it's a television experiment. Says Belushi: "It's going to be a big challenge for viewers. They're going to have to concentrate."

For his part, the wildly controversial Stone, ("JFK," "The Doors," "Platoon") seems to be "smacking his lips at the prospect of doing a six-hour movie that couldn't have been tried in any other medium" and that doesn't require "massive marketing and publicity." (Although ABC has made sure it's getting plenty of both.) And one of the best things about it, says Stone, is that in the TV forum he has the luxury of "a captive audience." (You'll be the judge of that.)

To a significant extent, Wild Palms exists because of what went haywire with Twin Peaks. The man who greenlighted both projects, Robert Iger, president of the ABC Television Network Group, says now: "I like programs that cause a commotion. Twin Peaks [from filmmaker David Lynch] did that in the beginning, but then, treated like a typical series, it ended with a whimper. If it had been limited to several hours, ending with the answer to the Laura Palmer mystery, it would have been remembered as one of the most significant shows that ever aired."

So that's a big reason why Iger responded to the pitch of Stone and his partner in this enterprise, Bruce Wagner (creator, writer and executive producer), for a British-style limited series—consider Masterpiece Theatre with a buzz on.

"It's also appealing," says Iger, "because when big name stars don't have to commit to an ongoing series, it's a lot easier to get them."

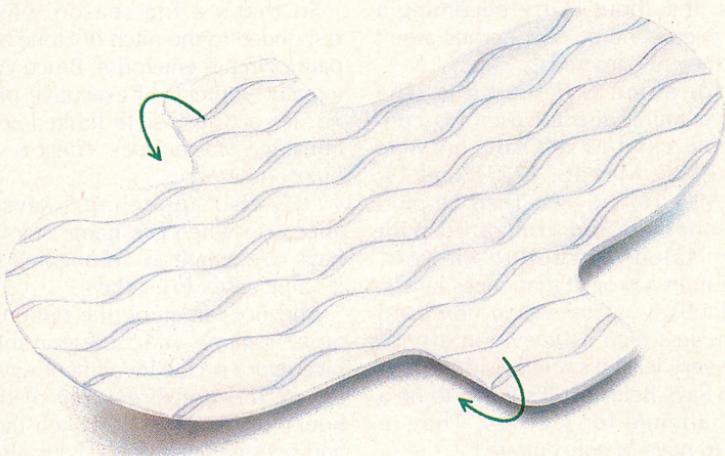

And not forgetting the bottom line, Stone's name attached guarantees a nice return on the investment, says Iger. (Stone did not direct any of the six hours; his role was to clinch the deal and oversee the project. Four filmmakers supervised by Wagner directed.) "We've created an economic model that makes sense for us," Iger says. "There's a videocassette release planned, not just in North America but internationally. We feel this will sell worldwide."

The story is based on a comic strip originated in Details magazine by Wagner, a writer-producer ("Scenes From the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills") and novelist ("Force Majeure"). "Wild Palms is quite subversive television, but fun, too," Wagner says. "It's not just nightmarish drama and it's not just a soap opera."

Belushi, who previously worked for Stone in "Salvador" as James Woods' spaced-out DJ buddy, "is an innocent who's drawn into a world he never imagined," says Wagner. The instigator of most of the mischief over six hours is Sen. Anton Kreutzer (Robert Loggia, Mancuso, F.B.I. and an Oscar nominee for "Jagged Edge"), a onetime science fiction writer-turned-visionary mystic-turned-founder of Synthiotics, an authoritarian cult whose members are taught about "multiple realities." Naturally, the cult members worship Kreutzer and will do anything to spread his vision of a "New Realism." The senator is also behind a paramilitary group called the Fathers, which carries out his policies, whatever that takes. And his Wild Palms Group—a conglomerate of industrial media complexes—provides the media power base so that he can use stolen technology to project himself three-dimensionally into Americans' living rooms to deliver his Messianic messages. Kreutzer's ambitions: the Presidency and immortality.

He's assisted by his sister, Josie, played by Angie Dickinson (Police Woman), an actress Stone originally had doubts about. "Here's this brutal matriarch character, and I knew Angie was such a sweetheart personally," he says. "I was amazed she was able to bring that character off."

Also in on Kreutzer's scheming is his mistress, Paige Katz (Kim Cattrall); Coty, 12, the putative son of Harry and Grace Wyckoff (Dana Delany, twice an Emmy winner for China Beach), played by Fred Savage's younger brother, Ben (Dear John); actress Tabba Schwartzkopf (Bebe Neuwirth, Lilith on Cheers); and Chap Starfall, a Sinatra-style crooner (Tony winner Robert Morse).

Fighting the Kreutzer forces are members of an organization called the Friends, who literally have to hide underground. Their leader, when he's not being held captive, is Josie's ex-husband, Eli Levitt (David Warner, Twin Peaks). And a prime victim of the Fathers is Levitt's son Chickie (Brad Dourif, an Oscar nominee for "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest"), the Einstein of the computer technology that vaults Kreutzer into prominence.

In the middle of all this, of course, is Harry, a good man at heart. For a long time, however, he gets seduced into the senator's world as an executive at Kreutzer's network, despite wife Grace's protests: "They're buying you...It's a sham!...I don't know you anymore...Wild Palms silences their enemies, Harry, with artificial dreams—and real death squads!"

Harry: "The 'conspiracy from hell.' You know what? Life is a conspiracy, against all of us. You either run for the hills with your tail between your legs—or stick around and fight for the beach house!"

THE PLAYERS OF PALMS

Robert Loggia says Wild Palms is certain to be controversial. "It's so off-the-wall, without suspending credibility, because our society is already off-the-wall," he says. "In this story, in 2007, it's not 'Blade Runner.' The world looks very clean for the most part. But there is technology that can be used for good or evil and my character is using it for evil, but he really thinks he's on a great mission."

Angie Dickinson is delighted to be given a shot at portraying a seemingly loving mother and grandmother who will manipulate and mutilate anyone who gets in the way of her conspiracy with Kreutzer. Says Dickinson: "I think Eli [leader of the opposition] pretty well sums it up when he tells her, 'You're a mercenary—a cannibal! A pimp, with the wings of a bat!'"

Bebe Neuwirth recalls reading the Wild Palms script for the first time and thinking, "It's strange, it's funny. It made me laugh to play the star of a sitcom where you appear lifesize in people's homes."

Brad Dourif says: "My character is the inventor of a cutting edge 'virtual reality.' In the real world, my character can't walk; in the world of virtual reality, he can. And Chickie has a creation beyond that called the 'Go Chip' that has almost metaphysical proportions to it. It provides such a complete world that you could actually project yourself into it."

Kim Cattrall plays Paige Katz—a woman groomed from childhood by the Wild Palms group not only to serve Kreutzer's sinister purposes but ultimately to marry him. "Paige is a woman who had practically no choice in life, but Harry [Belushi], an old boyfriend, arouses the need in her to change." Cattrall says that shooting the futuristic project became surreal at times, but executive producer Wagner kept things in perspective. "Bruce always explained the rationale and reassured us," she says. "You never know what you've gotten yourself into until you're in the middle of it, but I'm glad I got to do this. I think it's gutsy television."—G.E.

Cheers' Last

Eleven years later, Norm asks for his tab—and Cheers, one of TV's classic comedies, turns out the lights

After 275 episodes, 111 Emmy nominations and 26 Emmy Awards, Cheers will have its triumphant last call on May 20. The 90-minute finale—likely to be one of the most-watched TV shows ever—will be preceded on NBC and CanWest/Global by a half-hour retrospective special. Later that evening, the hourlong Tonight Show With Jay Leno will feature the Cheers cast in a live remote broadcast from Boston's Bull & Finch Pub, which became—through a route that traces back to radio—the model bar for Cheers.

"Cheers is a show about people talking in a bar," says James Burrows, co-creator, director and executive producer of the series. "If you closed your eyes and just listened to one of our episodes, you'd find it's essentially a radio show." In fact, Burrows' father (the late Abe Burrows) was head writer for several years on a radio series called "Duffy's Tavern," and when Cheers first took shape, it was going to be set in a saloon in Barstow, Ca.—a desert city between Los Angeles and Las Vegas.

"We thought it'd be fun to have various weird types stopping in on the way to Vegas," Burrows says. "But then we thought a sports bar would be better, in a city where there was real passion about its sports teams. Boston seemed good. The rest is history."

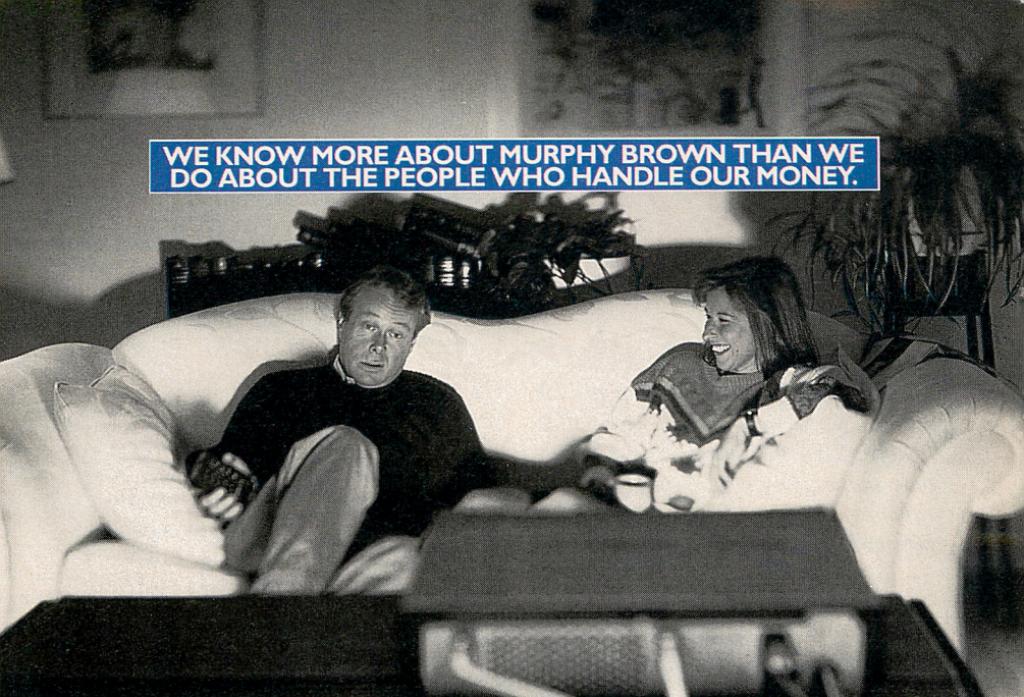

Head security guard Tom Perez's eyes dart around the Cheers soundstage. It makes him uneasy, all these strangers. He stops a steady stream of newcomers, politely asking to see their security passes. But his tone says it all. Everybody in the world wants to be here this April week for the taping of the last Cheers episode, and somehow, you got in. You'd better behave yourself.

"It's sort of like when someone dies," says Kirstie Alley, standing just out of the way of Cheers' frenetic crew of more than 100, 70 of whom face unemployment. "There's the funeral, and everybody's there, and you sort of hold it all together because you have to. But you know that when everybody goes their separate ways, you're going to lose it."

"I could cry right now," says George Wendt, having trouble getting the words out. He sits in the cast lounge, talking about a show that represents fully a quarter of his life, staring at his hands. Without a beer mug, they look empty, unfinished. "You wake up in the morning with that funky feeling in the pit of your stomach and you don't know what it is. Then you remember."

Remember that, though the show will live on in countless reruns, this is real life, where there's no rewind. Bell's rung, school's out, it's over.

"My mind hasn't been able to get around it yet," says Woody Harrelson, looking a little lost. "It hasn't seemed real."

"Where's Wood-head?" yells director James Burrows, uncharacteristically annoyed. Harrelson is keeping the cast waiting—again. He trots down the studio audience stairs, wolfing

WHERE GEORGE WENDT

Will they ever soar to such heights again? Probably not, but many members of the Cheers cast have new TV series and other projects planned (including Kelsey Grammer, see page 2). Here's a rundown on what they're doing:

George Wendt: Talking with NBC about a possible spinoff series for Norm. Wendt admits there's a "challenge" in having the star of a show known only for drinking beer and issuing wisecracks.

John Ratzenberger: Developing a Fox sitcom called Locals, in which he plays a small-town barber.

Rhea Perlman: "I haven't really decided what course my career will take. I'll probably be deluged with scripts that call for short, crabby barmaids. I'd like to try something completely different, but maybe I'll just stay home and enjoy my family."

Woody Harrelson: Already enjoying big-screen success ("Indecent Proposal," "White Men Can't Jump"), Harrelson is doing stage work ("Furthest From the Sun," a play he wrote and produced); playing in a band (Manly Moondog and the Three Kool Kats); and planning a move to Maui.

Kirstie Alley: Hoping to make it in feature films. "I'm going to take my best shot."

Ted Danson: Will costar with rumored off-screen lover Whoopi Goldberg in the summer feature "Made in America." Other film offers will surely arrive, but Danson—the star, and man who brought Cheers to a close—says, "I don't know what's waiting for me."

a takeout salad. He looks distracted, like he isn't really here. "He hasn't been here for the last two years," mutters one of the producers.

Harrelson has joined almost every other member of the cast—with the exception of Kelsey Grammer—in moonlighting on the big screen. But unlike them, he has also complained publicly about the lack of challenge in the TV role that made him famous. "I'm not eager for Cheers to be over," he says, "but I do think it's run its course. The writing is a little more hit and miss."

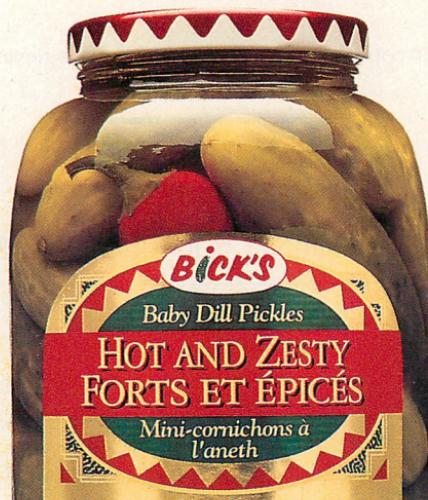

Still, there's no movie-star pretension on the set. ("We all have our egos," says Harrelson, "but nobody can get away with it for more than a few seconds without getting swatted down.") Maybe that's because everyone remembers where they came from.

None of the stars had a big name when Cheers debuted and fought cancellation in its inaugural season. By the time Harrelson and Alley showed up—Harrelson stepping in for Nicholas Colasanto (Coach), who passed away in 1985, and Alley replacing Shelley Long, who left in '87 for films—Cheers was a solid hit.

"We wanted to do a show without stars," says Burrows, who created Cheers with Les and Glen Charles, "because when you have a star, you have to worry about giving the star enough to do. It bends the show. All in the Family and *M*A*S*H* didn't have big stars. The audience made them stars."

Despite the adulation and awards—more Emmy nominations than any other show—the Cheers cast has, by all accounts, remained remarkably levelheaded, in large part due to the influence of Danson. Says Burrows: "He's very unegotistical, very warm. When he has a problem, it's not presented like, 'You bastards!' but 'Here's my problem.' When you have somebody like that who sets the tenor of the show, it's really hard for anybody else to be a sonofabitch."

"When people ask me why I'm leaving television," says Danson, "I tell them I didn't do television. I did Cheers."

Which is why many of the cast members—including Danson—are deeply worried about what they could possibly do with the rest of their careers that could have anywhere near the impact of Cheers. "It's tough to think that this is probably the best work any of us will ever have done," says Wendt. "But there's a damn good chance of that."

"I'll tell you why I think we've lasted this long," says Grammer. "It's a theory called requisite disrespect. If you play one character for more than a couple of years, nobody knows him better. You don't have to rehearse to know who he is. So if you come into work and you turn on the switch too soon, you're gonna beat the thing to death. Because this is not Chekhov. This is not great literature. This is a sitcom."

Cavalier as they may have become, the cast has become refocused with the end of the show—that and the return of Shelley Long. Despite the white-hot glare of media attention, the Cheers rehearsal dress code hasn't changed: sweats, barely combed hair, sneakers and no makeup. Except for

PAUL'S VIEW

The guy with the best seat in the house at Cheers has been the short, balding, mild-mannered Paul (above right), who bemusedly watched all the shenanigans and only occasionally piped up himself. Paul—played by longtime character actor Paul Willson—was a recurring character until he became a series regular in 1990. “The inevitable frustration was that there wasn’t much for me to do,” Willson says, “but the big thing was being part of a great series. I was way down the pecking order, although once I got up the nerve to tell Cliff, ‘Shut up, fathead!’”

Shelley Long.

Maybe she's into method acting, but her camera-ready appearance—with stockings and pleated skirt, no less—sticks out on set the way Diane's snobby intellectualism drives everyone to distraction. She reads her lines, clipped, precise, worried not only about her words and position but everyone else's. "She likes to argue about everything," says a staffer. "I think that's what upset everybody before she left."

Paramount's Stage 25, Cheers' home from the beginning, has been transformed. Normally quiet, it was the kind of place where Kirstie Alley's adopted 6-month-old son could gurgle with contentment on an afghan on the floor. That wouldn't be a good idea now, not with all the reporters, relatives and a surprising number of hangers-on who are trying to soak up some reflected glory. Network and studio executives eagerly join the 75 extras warming the barstools. Powerful agents cruise the floor, looking like well-fed sharks in an over-stocked fish tank. A full-time masseuse, working right on the set, unties knots in famous shoulders, backs and necks.

Says Alley: "I definitely know that this will be the six most magical years of my life. It has to do with a relationship with eight people. I've been married 10 years, and marriage is hard. It's hard to spend that much time around one person and get along. Well, try eight. We don't have fights, we don't yell at each other, and we're together more than married couples. You know what this feels like? It feels like getting a divorce when you still love your husband."

The cast is hugging and taking its final bows. The by-invitation-only crowd won't stop clapping. Danson is trying to keep his emotions in check. Perlman is crying. Alley is almost giddy with emotion, alternating between giggles and tears. When Long turns to Perlman, they pointedly do not embrace. Harrelson cries like nobody's business, "sobbing like he had lost a best friend," says executive producer Dan O'Shannon.

Maybe he has. As Wendt said—when told, flatly, that people wouldn't believe that being part of Cheers was all that wonderful—while doing an instantaneous takeoff on Peter Pan: "Then they should clap their hands and believe. Because it was."

KEENE CURTIS, CHEERS
NBC/GLOBAL

by GLENN ESTERLY

When Sam Malone wasn't bickering with Rebecca, he was jousting with John—the character who, for the last three seasons, owned Melville's restaurant above Cheers. "My character always had the upper hand, and it just drove Sam nuts," says Keene Curtis, who played John Allen Hill.

The inside of Melville's wasn't shown often on Cheers, but Curtis describes it as "the sort of dining space you'd expect in a classy Boston restaurant." And in Boston, of course, one also expects seafood—like Melville's white wine with mushroom sauce, used with sole and other light ocean fare.

IN REVIEW

CHEERS TO CHEERS

Thursday nights will never be the same for millions of TV watchers. And Cheers' success is all the more remarkable in that, when it debuted in September 1982, the series ranked 77th of '77 shows. No single factor accounts for the show's durability, which is why when I asked around the office for favorite moments and lines, there were far too many to print. Still, here's a sampling to which you can add yours.

For a favorite episode, Senior Writer Bill Brioux cited the time Cliff got a monkey to paint his apartment, making fun of Norm, who was then working as painter. Later, Norm had a monkey outfitted as a postman enter the bar and start handing out mail.

Station Editor Kelly Lamb's favorite show had Woody composing an ode of love to, you guessed it, Kelly ("Kelly, Kelly, Kelly/K-E-L-L-Y, Why?/Because you're Kelly, Kelly, Kelly/Your skin is so clean"), while National Editor Paul Welsby remembered the snipe hunting episode in which Frasier finally becomes one of the boys.

Everyone, it seems, had favorite exchanges, with Norm in on the most. From Welsby...Woody: "Like a beer, Mr. Peterson?" Norm: "A little early, isn't it, Woody?" Woody: "Oh, OK, sorry." Norm: "No, I mean it's a little early for stupid questions." Or Norm, after noticing that Frasier had put a slice of lime in his draft: "The only thing I like floating in my beer is my liver."

NBC

A number of people remembered a Norm reply to the "How's it going?" salutation: "It's a dog-eat-dog world, and I'm wearing Milk Bones shorts." And Managing Editor Lee Anne Nicholson recalled these bar greetings...

Sam: "What's up, Norm?" Norm: "My nipples. It's freezing outside."

Sam: "What are you up to, Norm?" Norm: "My ideal weight if I were 11 feet tall."

Woody: "Hey, Mr. Peterson, Jack Frost nipping at your nose?" Norm: "Yeah, now let's get Joe Beer nipping at my liver, huh."

No exchanges, of course, were more biting than those between Carla and Diane. Diane: "What could be more enjoyable than opening your heart with holiday cheer?" Carla: "Opening yours with a can opener."

But overall, it was gentle show, and no one typified that gentleness more than loopy Coach (Nicholas Colasanto), as this exchange indicates...Sam: "Coach, I'm having blackouts." Coach: "Kind of a nice break in the day, isn't it, Sam?"

Cheers was like that, too: A nice break in the week. Fortunately, we can still drink in its magic in syndication.
